SAYS SITUATION IS ACUTE.

Washington, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Representative Kehoe, of Kentucky, introduced a resolution in the House today for an investigation by the Department of Commerce and Labor as to the cause of the difference between the price of leaf tobacco and the manufactured article, especially in Kentucky, Ohio and Tennessee, and whether the same is due to a trust or combination in the form of a conspiracy in restraint of trade.

It is desired to know what has caused the low price of leaf tobacco, and joint stock company engaged in handling tobacco; whether such company uses the boycott or blacklist in its purchases or has taken any measures to prevent competition. The resolution requires a full investigation of such cooperation or joint stock company.

Purpose of Resolution.

With reference to his resolution Representative Kehoe said to-night:

SHERLEY

Speaks For the Improvement of the Ohio.

RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL

PASSED AS REPORTED FROM THE COMMITTEE.

HEATED DEBATE IN HOUSE.

Washington, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Chairman Burton, of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, carried his bill into the night, and when an adjournment had been reached by the House the bill was passed and ready for the Senate amendments. As far as the House was concerned the measure might as well have never been brought up. Burton was sustained in every point, and only those minor amendments which he himself proposed were adopted. At the same time the consideration of the measure gave fully half the members of the House something to say, and at times the debate became quite heated when the chairman, with the House machine behind him, would point out just why such and such an appropriation failed to get in the committee bill.

One of the few amendments adopted was a minor one presented by Representative Hopkins, of Kentucky, who had gained Mr. Burton's approval to a slight change in the bill whereby it is provided that the County of Clark county should receive payment for the reasonable cost expended by it in the construction of a county bridge across two miles creek and for repairing the damage in the county road caused by the construction of lock 10, at Ford, Ky.

Mr. Sherley Speaks.

Representative Sherley, of Louisville, was the first of five to get the floor. He said that for $25,000 a dam could be erected at the head of the falls that would create a six-foot pool extending as high as Madison, that would add more than any other dam on the Ohio, and it could be done at a cost of but a third of the cost of any other dam at any other point on the river, and by a very small increase in cost a nine-foot pool could be created. Realizing its uselessness, Mr. Sherley said, he would not offer an amendment, but wanted to explain the importance of the improvement he advocated. He thought the committee should have made a larger appropriation than is contained in the bill, which was an absurdly small one. "I am glad to represent," said Mr. Sherley, "the great city of Louisville. I shall ever be ready to fight for her rights, but I hope the day will never come when I shall be blinded to the rights of other cities. I am willing to stand here in criticism of other sections of the country, because my district does not get what I think it ought to have."

Favors Bigger Appropriation.

Mr. Sherley said that what ought to be done was to create a settlement throughout the country that would warrant the committee bringing in a $50,000,000 bill instead of one of $20,000,000.

"I would like to see the President of the United States," said Mr. Sherley, "not simply agreeing to favor an increase in our navy, but I would like to see him call the attention of the country to the fact that we are in need of the improvements of our waterways, and help create a sentiment that would not only give support to, but demand of Congress the annual expenditure of twice the sum now spent. I believe when the absurd difference between expenditures for war purposes and those for business purposes is brought home to the people they will demand a change."

Mr. Kehoe's Remarks.

Representative Kehoe in advocating improvement of the mouth of the Ohio river said he simply asked what the business officers had recommended. Mr. Sherley said he need no longer to build up a sentiment for river improvements in this country, because that sentiment has already been built and the people of the United States would cheerfully approve, not only a $30,000,000 bill, but a $75,000,000 bill.

Mr. Stanley's Plea.

In making a plea for the deepening of the Ohio at the mouth of Green river, Representative Stanley said the Ohio carried more freight upon its banks than any other stream in the world, and moving toward the city of Evansville alone every year there passed out of the mouth of Green river 90,000 tons of goods.

Mr. Zenor's Amendment.

Mr. Zenor in offering his amendment for dredging the Ohio from Louisville to Evansville, said that if there was one point on the lower Ohio which absolutely needs the work of a dredge, it was certainly between Louisville and Evansville. Mr. Zenor said that the Ohio in low water renders navigation absolutely impossible to the ordinary steamboat. Mr. Zenor said there were several such places between the two points, and in view of the population and business interests along the Ohio his amendment deserved adoption. He made a plea for a dredge boat to take up the work, saying all the steamboat men thought one should be kept in commission.

A Word From Mr. Hemenway.

Representative Hemenway said for three months last year navigation was suspended in the Ohio river below the mouth of Green river, when, if a small amount had been expended for a dredge, navigation would have continued. He called attention to the fact that Green river was navigable a considerable distance up the river, but as soon as boats reached the mouth they were frequently blocked by low water.

CANAL ZONE MEASURE

Passed By Senate and Testimony Closed In Swayne Case.

Washington, Feb. 23.—The last of the testimony in the interest of Judge Swayne in the impeachment proceeding against him was today presented to the Senate. The case today occupied seven hours of time, beginning at 1 o'clock and closing at 10, with an intermission of two hours from 6 to 8. Much of the time was spent in the presentation of the admissibility of testimony. The Senate also adopted an order granting each side five hours in the presentation of its case. The bill providing a form of government for the Panama canal zone was also passed. The bill is a House measure. It was amended in several important respects by the Senate, notably in eliminating the provision for abolishing the Canal Commission. The measure will now go to conference if the amendments are not accepted by the House. The bill is temporary in character. It provides for the expiration of the first regular session of the next Congress. It vests in the President authority to appoint a person to govern the canal zone, and the President is given further authority to direct the manner of such control.

FAVORABLE REPORT

On Philippine Tariff Bill By The Senate Committee.

Washington, Feb. 23.—The Senate Committee on the Philippines today authorized a favorable report upon the House bill revising and amending the tariff laws of the Philippine Islands. The committee was in session only a short time, and the bill occupied wholly by Secretary of War Taft, who discussed features of the measure. Only one amendment was introduced to the bill as it passed the House. The provision prohibiting a license system with a view to deriving revenue from traffic in opium has been stricken. In its place has been submitted a provision that "after March 1, 1908, it shall be unlawful to import into the Philippine Islands opium in whatever form, except by the Government, and for medicinal purposes only, and at no time shall it be lawful to sell opium to any native of the Philippine Islands except for medicinal purposes."

MANGLED

Body of Grand Duke Sergius Consigned To Tomb.

AIR HEAVY WITH INCENSE

IN THE CHAPEL AT THE CHAUFFOFF MONASTERY.

THE GRAND DUCHESS' GRIEF.

Moscow, Feb. 23.—The solemn ceremony of blessing the remains of Grand Duke Sergius was performed at 10 o'clock this morning in the midst of the tolling of bells of all the churches and monasteries of the ancient capital. Immense crowds thronged the open squares in front of the palaces and there was a considerable display of troops in the streets. Grenadiers of the Kleff regiment furnished the guard at the Chaudoff monastery, which was the scene of funeral services.

So far as the public was concerned nothing could be seen beyond the carriages of those invited to the funeral which quickly filled the small available space.

After the blessing of the body it was conveyed to the adjoining church of St. Andrew, where it was laid on a catafalque. The coffin was covered by a mass of floral wreaths and crosses. The officials of Grand Duke Sergius' household and his aides d'camp formed a circle around the bier, while the regiments of the Moscow garrison furnished contingents for the guard of honor.

A Pathetic Scene.

The scene within the church was pathetic. The guard of honor was drawn back as the imperial party entered to take their places before the bier. The coffin in which rested the remains of the murdered Grand Duke stood upon a great catafalque covered with cloth of gold, on the four corners of which were imperial eagles, while below on cushions rested the orders of the dead man. The coffin was covered with cloth of silver trimmed with ermine. The mangled body lay in state dressed in full uniform, but a veil of fine lace was spread over the remains of the murdered Grand Duke. A gloved hand held an ikon of St. Nicholas.

The Grand Duke's widow, the Grand Duchess Elizabeth, took her place at the foot of the coffin in front of a group of other members of the imperial family. She was arrayed in the deepest black, save the scarlet ribbon of the order of St. Anne, and was the center of all eyes. Throughout the ordeal she kept her face turned toward the dead yesterday when she followed the dead coachman to the grave.

The Services.

The metropolitan and ten bishops conducted the service, which was accompanied by recitative chanting by the imperial choir. The air of the church was filled with the sound of the swinging censers. When the metropolitan read the prayer for absolution all present knelt, many of them in the rear of the church prostrating themselves. The children of Grand Duke Paul, Dmitri and Mary, sobbed aloud, but it was when the time came to kiss the dead according to the custom of the orthodox faith that the Grand Duchess Elizabeth almost broke down. Her tall, dark figure shook and away and she was about to fall when Grand Duke Constantine gave her support, and she kissed the uniform on the left breast.

Body Placed In Vault.

There a brief service of consignment to the grave took place, after which the body was placed in a vault where it will remain until removed to St. Petersburg. Exactly at noon as the ceremony concluded Moscow's five hundred bells began tolling and the people who were gathered on Red square gradually dispersed.

A FAMILY COUNCIL

Is Held At Tsarsko-Selo After The Memorial Services.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 24.—A m. m.—All the members of the imperial family who attended the funeral for Grand Duke Sergius at Tsarsko-Selo yesterday remained to a family council in the evening. The Dowager Empress, who had been invited to the funeral, and the eventful "Red Sunday," January 22, becoming impatient at the restraints which were advised by the police for her safety, rebelled against the alleged necessity of remaining at Tsarsko-Selo, declaring that she is not afraid; and the late Emperor's body was run out, and that if assassins want her life they may have it. The imperial family and authorities implored her not to return to St. Petersburg, and she finally yielded.

General Satisfaction Is Expressed.

The public is expressing satisfaction with the funeral of Grand Duke Sergius passed off with no untoward incident. Even the extreme radicals respected the day of grief of the imperial family. The police precautions, both here and at Moscow, though extensive, apparently were not needed.

A SIMPLE CEREMONY

At Tsarsko-Selo In The Presence Of Emperor Nicholas.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 23.—A requiem for the repose of the soul of Grand Duke Sergius was celebrated at Tsarsko-Selo today in the presence of Emperor Nicholas, the imperial family and the foreign Ambassadors. A similar service at St. Isaac's cathedral here was attended by persons of all ranks, and the Government officers and military and naval officers. The public was not admitted. The services here for the repose of the soul of Grand Duke Sergius passed off without incident. St. Isaac's was not crowded by the functionaries. The service at Tsarsko-Selo, which was of a quiet and simple nature, was attended by the Emperor, the Empress and two of their daughters and all the Grand Dukes and Grand Duchesses who had remained in St. Petersburg. The Emperor looked haggard and worn, but he maintained a firm bearing. Ambassador McCormick and the other diplomats went out to Tsarsko-Selo

PENSION

Likely To Be Granted McKinley's Grandnephew.

ROMANTIC ARMY EXPERIENCE

IN WHICH EYESIGHT WAS LOST, THE GROUND.

BACK PENSION FOR NEGRESS.

Washington, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The Senate has passed the bill pensioning Russell A. McKinley, a grandnephew of the late President, at the rate of $100 a month. The measure is now pending in the House Pension Committee, and owing to the unusual features of the case, may be reported and passed before adjournment.

Young McKinley, a resident of Boise City, Idaho, enlisted as a private at the beginning of the Spanish war under an assumed name. He served through the war in Cuba, and at the conclusion of hostilities did garrison duty in Matanzas. While stationed there he, with a comrade, was granted leave of absence, and was married in Havana. Upon returning the two were court-martialed, dishonorably discharged and given six months at hard labor. Young McKinley had never confided to anyone his relation to the President. He was assigned to the rock quarries, and through the premature explosion of a blast his face was horribly disfigured and his sight totally destroyed. Still without revealing his identity he managed to make his way, through the assistance of friends, to Boise City, Idaho, and not until the present year was anything known concerning the case. The matter was brought to attention of Senator Dibble, who immediately introduced a bill pensioning him.

CITY WINS

IN CASE APPEALED FROM JEFFERSON CHANCERY COURT.

Executor Held Liable For Taxes On Property—Argument In Elevator Accident Case.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—At today's session of the Appellate Court Judge Nunn held an opinion reversing judgment of the Jefferson Chancery Court, first division, in a case of the City of Louisville against Stuart Robinson's executor and others, and reversing the case to the court below, with directions to find for the city. The action was by the city to recover on tax bills on certain property for the year 1898, the amount of $480. The court here holds the executor liable for the taxes.

In an opinion by Chief Justice Hobson the court affirmed the Jefferson Common Pleas Court, first division, in a case of Theodore H. Lester's administrator against Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, of California. The action was to recover on a policy of insurance for $2,000 on the life of Lester. After hearing the trial judge gave peremptory instruction for the company.

Judgment of the Greenup Circuit Court in a case of James Abrams against the Commonwealth was affirmed by the court. The case was brought by the Commonwealth against Abrams, who was indicted, tried and convicted in the court below of the crime of breaking into an outhouse and stealing three chickens. He was sentenced to confinement for two years in the State penitentiary. The court here in this case affirmed the judgment of the trial judge.

WM. LUKEMEIER PASSES AWAY

HIS EXTREME AGE HASTENS THE END.

A NATIVE OF OLD COUNTRY.

William Lukemeier, one of the oldest German residents of Louisville, formerly a minister in the German Methodist Church and a charter member of the German Methodist church, now located at Seventeenth and Jefferson streets, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Schoppenhorst, 1827 West Market street, at 6 o'clock last evening, from septicaemia, from a scratch made by a suspender buckle.

Mr. Lukemeier was married in 1842 to Miss Elizabeth Bennerman, a member of an old Virginia family. Mrs. Lukemeier died only two years ago, and the couple enjoyed the distinction of celebrating the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding a short time before she died.

Mr. Lukemeier is survived by a large family. One brother, the Rev. Henry Lukemeier, also a minister in the German Methodist church at Huntington, Ind., survives, but is seriously ill at present. His condition is not expected to survive his brother many months. Three daughters, Mrs. Henry Schoppenhorst, Miss Carrie Lukemeier and Miss Lizzie Lukemeier, all of whom, Henry A. Lukemeier, of New Albany, and Louis J. Lukemeier, of Louisville, also survive. The latter is connected with the undertaking establishment of H. Schoppenhorst. Fifteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild are living.

The funeral services have not been arranged, but a probate sale of the estate will be held at 2 o'clock on the German Methodist church.
